Dear Program Director:

As the leader Texas outreach expressing opposition to Bank of America grants to the now-disgraced Planned Parenthood, I am hoping you will remove Planned Parenthood from your list of non-profits meriting your financial support and seal of approval.

My attachments describe major facets of the ongoing controversy, which in Austin has become a street confrontation in front of your branch at 515 Congress Avenue.

I want you to know that the pro-life dedication in response to #PPSellsBabyParts is stronger than ever and led me to launch #ProtestBOA on September 1. The participation and support Pro-Life Waco has received is beyond our expectations. It is our view that the horrific treatment of aborted babies by Planned Parenthood—severing and selling baby organs--should disqualify them from corporate philanthropy. Typically, corporate philanthropy is for causes that bring people together not divide them with intense conflict. I applaud your support for Special Olympics.

With a wave of pro-life enthusiasm, Pro-Life Waco will continue for as long as it takes to resolve the issues of #ProtestBOA. Just 10 of a planned 14 undercover videos have been released. More videos over the next month or so will mean intensified controversy over Planned Parenthood. I hope you will conclude that entanglement with Planned Parenthood is not the place for Bank of America to be. I would be happy to discuss the matter with you. I was able to discuss the Planned Parenthood grant situation directly with Wells Fargo managers in Central Texas. As you can see from the letter enclosed, we were able to come to a reasonable accommodation very quickly.

Through the weeks of #ProtestBOA, we continue to send a strong message to the business community that Planned Parenthood is not a worthy charity. #ProtestBOA also gives us the opportunity to inform citizens about the deplorable realities of Planned Parenthood in 2015. We must act as the press since the media is largely acting as a shield for Planned Parenthood.

Sincerely,

John Pisciotta, Ph. D.
